Sample Letter to Congress

(DATE)

The Honorable (Name)

U.S. House of Representatives / U.S. Senate

By FASCIMILIE

Dear Representative / Senator (NAME),

I am writing to urge you to save the secret ballot component of a union organizing election. The secret ballot is threatened in the so-called Employee Free Choice Act or "card check" legislation that the 111th Congress will consider in 2009. I urge you to oppose this legislation.

Simply put, this bill is anti-worker and would be a dramatic, negative change to the American workplace depriving workers of the fundamental American right of a secret ballot election to determine union representation.

The erroneously named Employee Free Choice Act would replace the privacy of election booths with the very public "card check recognition" process. Employees would be forced to make their choice for or against a union in front of coworkers or union organizers. The "card check" process invites intimidation and coercion in the organizing process by eliminating the privacy and anonymity that are cornerstones of America's free election process and granted to employees under the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA).

Furthermore, the "card check" legislation contains a provision that mandates compulsory, binding arbitration on the employer and the employees as part of the collective bargaining process. This misguided language would have a third party -- a government official -- making labor contract decisions that are binding upon both parties. This would mean that the business owner would have no real voice in his own business nor would the now-unionized employees be provided with the opportunity to vote on their new contract.

I urge you to oppose the Employee Free Choice Act. Secret ballot elections are the foundation of our democratic society, and America's workers deserve nothing less.

Sincerely,
