Tennessee Scholars is beginning its seventh year of success in motivating students to take challenging academic courses and to develop early the skills and habits that are essential to success in post-secondary education, the workforce and the military. Tennessee Scholars graduate prepared to be more competitive in a global economy. The volunteers, partners, and staff of the Tennessee Scholars initiative are committed to helping Tennessee students become “First to the Top” in education.

At the 2010 Partnership Summit, key Tennessee business and education partners, former Tennessee Scholars graduates, and legislators will discuss various collaborations and ways we can work together to make an impact on the success of Tennessee Scholars and education in Tennessee. We will also be recognizing some of our school districts that have had significant growth and that have served as role models for the Tennessee Scholars initiative during the past seven years.

Lunch is included with your registration fee. For more information about the Summit, contact Ruth Woodall at 615-256-5141 or at ruth.woodall@tnchamber.org
