Eddie W. Floyd receives Recognition

Eddie W. Floyd of Columbia was recognized for his public service by Tennessee Chamber of Commerce & Industry at the 27th Annual Tennessee Chamber Environmental Conference.

Eddie was presented a Certificate of Appreciation for his twenty-three (23) years of dedicated and continued service for manufacturing industries and the people of Tennessee as member of the Tennessee Water Pollution Control Board. Eddie is retired from Glenn Springs Holdings, Inc. in Columbia and is now employed by Brown and Caldwell, an engineering consulting firm in Nashville.

“Eddie’s service on the Board included serving as a jury for contested enforcement cases and making technical decisions regarding regulations to assure the water of the state were protected,” said Wayne Scharber, Vice-President for Environmental Affairs for the Tennessee Chamber.

The recognition and presentation was made during the 27th annual Tennessee Chamber Environmental Conference at the Millennium Maxwell House Hotel. The event also provided recognition and awards to industries for successes in the areas of air quality, water quality, solid waste management, hazardous waste management, and environmental excellence.

Industry and companies receiving recognition included: JTEKT Automotive Tennessee-Morristown, DTR Tennessee in Midway, DTR Tennessee in Tazewell, Babcock & Wilcox Technical Services Y-12 in Oak Ridge, U.S. Smokeless Tobacco Company Manufacturing Center in Nashville, UT-Battelle in Oak Ridge and Bridgestone Americas Tire Operations – Warren Plant in Morrison.

The Tennessee Chamber of Commerce & Industry is the state’s largest broad-based trade association, representing employers and their employees across the state.
